CAMPAIGN FOR RED CROSS

MEMBERSHIP, DEC. 16 to 23.

The American Red Cross is about to enter upon the most important campaign in its history—the Christmas Roll Call. The purpose of the campaign is to secure universal membership, and nothing short of this accomplishment will enable the organization to assume the enormous tasks involved in the program of reconstruction following the war.

From December 16th to 23rd the lists will be open for every American in every corner of the world, so that it may be known that the whole nation at home and abroad is registered for the cause. The Red Cross wants again to give the world notice not only that America can fight, but that to the last man, woman and child we stand four square for mercy, honor and good faith among the nations.

At the close of the Christmas membership campaign of 1917 there were 22,000,000 Americans enrolled in the Red Cross; there were also 8,000,000 members in the Junior Red Cross.

This year, both as a Christmas observance and as a renewal of nationwide pledge of loyalty, the Red Cross will again put before everyone the duty of standing by the flag. The work of this mercy organization must go on unceasingly. The coming of Peace means the coming of a greater responsibility for humanitarian work. This will not be a call for money. It will be a summons to Americans everywhere to line up for the American ideal.

The Red Cross membership fee is $1.00. Half of this amount remains with the local chapter to be used for expenses and for relief of our soldiers and also their families; the other half goes to the national treasury.

There will be no allotment of quotas to any community. The quota in every district will be the limit of its adult population.

When the roll call comes, every American, old or young will be called on to register and add the weight of his name to the Red Cross message.

Let us answer with one voice to the word of President Wilson when he said:—"I SUMMON YOU TO THE COMRADESHIP."

Yours very truly,
Otto E. Sovereign,
Campaign Director.

Sincere Gratitude.

WILL FITTINGLY
OPEN NEW CHURCH

MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH
TO BE DEDICATED WEEK
OF DECEMBER 8.

Beginning Sunday, December 8th, dedicatory services will be conducted at the new Michelson Memorial church. These services will last four days. The program is not fully covered at this time but it is expected that in our next issue full details will be published.

Sunday morning, December 8th, Bishop Henderson of Detroit will occupy the pulpit of the new edifice. He is a remarkable gentleman and is sure to have a message for the Grayling people that will be worthy of the attendance of the busiest people in the city. In the afternoon of the same day he will lecture to the men of Grayling; and all men are urged to be present and bring along a friend. In the evening Bishop Henderson will again occupy the pulpit and formally dedicate the church.

There are plans being made for strong meetings on Monday and Tuesday nights and on Wednesday night there will be a banquet for the adult population. There will be a charge for the latter of $1.00 per plate. The dinner will be worth it and the evening of toasts and speeches will be more than worth the price. It is sure to be a fitting round-up of the week's activities. Every feature in connection with the dedication services is going to be of a high order.

This beautiful new church, which is receiving the finishing touches of the decorators at this time, will be ready for dedication and those who have not kept in touch with the work of construction and equipping are going to be surprised at its beauty and completeness. This is a gift from our fellow citizen Mr. Nels Michelson to the people of Grayling. It is intended for all the people, according to the wishes of the donor, and it is his desire that all reference to it as a Methodist church be avoided. It is a community church and it is desired that the people of the community make the fullest use of it.

In the Rev. Clifford E. Doty the church has an able pastor, whose sermons during the few weeks he has been here have already won for him the highest appreciation of the people who have heard him. We are sure that the church conference board were wise in the selection of Rev. Doty to become the pastor of Grayling's new church. All that remains now is for the people to get into the movement that is sure to follow the opening of the new church. The church will need the support of every person in the community and in return is going to give to the community many fold times in value to the upbuilding, enlarging and edifying of our people and to the public spirit of the place.

When dedication week comes Grayling is going to flock to the church and the people are going to take a part in the services, and are going to show their deep appreciation in the new church that has so generously been provided for them.

DANIEL HARRISON WILLIAMS.

South Branch Township Boy Killed in Action.

"Daniel Harrison Williams, killed in action, Somewhere in France, Oct. 7th." This was the news which cast a shadow over our entire community when it was learned that this telegram had been received by his parents.

He was a South Branch Township boy, having been born on his father's farm near here, later moving with his parents to Grayling, and later still to Vanderbilt, where he received most of his school training. In July, 1912, he returned with his parents to this place, where he made his home until called to the service of his country. Nov. 22, 1917, just one year to a day before the news reached his loved ones of his death in France.

He was 23 years, 6 months and 7 days old when he fell, valiantly defending the great cause of liberty. He was a fine upright young man, well liked by all who knew him; a dutiful son; a staunch friend and we are proud to know he died a hero's death. He was a member of the Roscommon Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Grayling Lodge of the Order of Moose.

He leaves to mourn him, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, two brothers, Burton and Norton, a sister, Mrs. Fred Hartman, and an adopted sister, Violet. Also a host of friends, who will miss his bright face among them.

"Over the top," where shells were screaming,
And bullets whistle their songs so dread.
"Over the top," with bayonets gleaming,
Charging into the hell fire's red
Gasping from gas, and torn by shrapnel,
Blown to dust by exploding bombs,
"Over the top" at the beckoning of duty,
Our son, friend, and brother has been called home.

FAIR ATTENDANCE AT MISS
PHELPS' LECTURE ON SO-CIAL HYGIENE.

Those who heard Miss Jessie Phelps at the School auditorium last Friday night, when she gave a talk on social hygiene, will full appreciate the splendid work that lady is doing in her lectures. She was invited here by the Teachers-Parents association and it was before this body that she gave her lecture. In part her lecture was as follows:

She impressed upon her auditors the importance of good health, and said that to be a good parent one must have a good, healthy body. People with healthy bodies can become parents of better children. They can also be better in the home, and have better judgments, and have more patience. People must have proper rest and exercise and good nourishment.

Mothers should have time to get away from the family often, and from home duties. Home will look good to her when she returns and the family will appreciate her more than ever. The mother in the home must know a great many things. She must know how to properly feed her family and understand a balanced ration. The feeding of babies requires excellent judgment and should be confined to milk and occasionally orange juice. Most stock raisers know how to feed pigs and calves while few mothers know how to feed babies.

Everybody needs good rest. Go to bed regularly on time and get up on time. Promptness and regularity should be the key note in every home—regularity in feeding and regularity in sleep. And the home environment should be carefully looked out for. Confidences should be established and maintained in children and parents. Parents should not deceive their children, and should not laugh at their children's questions. They are serious matters with the children and should be answered seriously. Do not give children false ideas from their questions.

Children should be taught what birth means, and should be taught the origin of babies. Children should learn to be above board in all things, and should be made to know what marriage means.

There were many excellent ideas advanced by Miss Phelps in her address, and no doubt left thought for deep reflection among the men and women that were present. Some literature was given out that gave information along the lines of the talk she gave, and lists of books recommended for reading. The Parents-Teachers association are to be commended for instituting such addresses into their meetings, and it is hoped that the beginning made at this meeting may be continued with follow-up addresses, thus to get the utmost out of the foundation that has been prepared by Miss Phelps.

About Croup.
If your children are subject to croup, or if you have reason to fear their being attacked by that disease, you should procure a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and study directions for use, so that in case of an attack you will know exactly what and very successful remedy for croup, course to pursue. This is a favorite and it is important that you observe the directions carefully.

JOHANNES CHRISTENSON DIES
IN FRANCE, OCT. 12.

Word has been received of the death of Johannes Christenson in France from one of his comrades. The letter follows:

France, Oct. 14-18.
Mr. Axel Christenson,
726 Newall St. Flint, Mich.
Dear Friend:

No doubt you have wondered why I never wrote you before but it has been like this when Johannes wrote you, I'd tell him to stick in a word or so for me.

Axel it is with sincere regret that I write you at this time but I feel it my duty. First only a few days ago or perhaps a month ago you learned by Government information that your brother, Johannes Christenson died of disease in France. My writing you substantiates this sad thing.

About October 3rd Johannes and 43 other men were sent on detached service to work in a hospital and care for the sick when after five days he took sick and on Saturday, October, 12th, 2 p.m. he passed to the land from which no traveler returns.

During the ocean voyage and our stop at five or six camps and billets I never knew him to be on company roll list or to ever complain.

Johannes was a good soldier, he performed all the duties assigned to him and did them cheerfully on the Company record and there is no mark against him for court martial or disobedience. I am or rather have made a request for his personal articles and will then send them to you personally, unless the Captain mails them to your father and mother. Money due him will also be sent to his parents also a letter of sympathy, from the captain will be mailed to your parents.

Have been over here about one and a half months and we are near a quiet sector but they raised hell Saturday night for more than an hour. It was an artillery duel and was some noise, but we are not very near it.

Saturday contracted a case of aeroplanitis watching the planes and also watching for hits by the air craft guns.

Was feeling sort of low Saturday owing to a hike of about 14 miles. Friday we were played part of the way and carried light packs.

So far my health has been good and I hope you and your family are well with the best regards to all I am your friend.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see how hair, and how it grows, and how it really grows, growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and gently rub it through your hair, making one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine—Adv.

It is necessary to premise this little story with the assurance that it was not created by a reporter, but that it actually happened, reports a Philadelphia News.

In the purchasing agent's office of one of the largest of the latest corporations in Atlantic county, there was a clerk named Smith, and a stenographer named Smith.

The wife of the purchasing agent called over the telephone one day and asked for her husband.

"He has just stepped out," replied Miss Smith, who answered the phone.

"Oh, please," explained the purchasing agent's wife.

"Miss Smith," the stenographer replied, "Why, he's not in the office."

"Oh, never mind," continued the purchasing agent's wife.

"Yes, that's my name," replied the stenographer.

PERSHING HAILED BY PARIS CROWDS

Cheering Mob Surrounds American Commander in Chief.

CAR IS HALTED IN STREET

Leader of Yanks Showered With Flags and Flowers as He Acknowledges Unexpected Tribute.

Paris. During an impromptu trip through the Place de la Concorde Gen. John J. Pershing received plaudits that perhaps never before have been equaled in the history of the city. It was also perhaps one of the most dangerous half hours he ever experienced, as fifty thousand wildly cheering Parisians circled about his car and fully half a million comprised the great mob that crammed the Place de la Concorde and was still flowing in from all the boulevards.

The general was out for a short drive and had come up the Rue Rivoli. His car was proceeding at a snail's pace before it was recognized by the frenzied street crowds.

As General Pershing's face, with the famous smile, showed through the door, a French girl with the flag of half a dozen nations twined about her head screamed, "General Pershing!"

The cry was taken up instantly and passed over the cheering multitudes. If there were any dangers about the general, they were swamped up in the enormous tide. In an instant men and women were mad and screamed his name, and all tried to reach the car.

Men pulled at women and held them on their shoulders that they might get a look at the car. The mob surged toward the car in another wave.

Shakes Hands of Children.

General Pershing, amidst the danger, was smiling and waving. Instead of closing the window and urging the driver to get out before they were crushed to death, he let the window down full length, laughed heartily, and thrust his hand out of the door to shake the hand of a little French child whose proud father tried her above the heads of the mob.

Children climbed on the car and shook hands with the general, and the mob surged toward the car in another wave.

Troops in England First Home.

London.—The first American troops to depart homeward as a result of the signing of the armistice will be 18,000 men stationed in England. The American army expects to start the first shipment of these soldiers homeward within a few days, and to have all the men on their way back to the United States ten days later.

The plans for clearing England of American troops are incomplete, but it is desired to remove these men immediately, as some shipping is available for this purpose. Most of the 18,000 men are helping the British air force.

The American hospital units will be left in England until a policy for caring for future cases of illness among the Americans has been decided upon.

The belief is expressed at army headquarters that very few Americans will be left long in England, as it is thought that the hospitals in France can care for future needs.

German Navy Surrendered.

London. There has just been seen the greatest naval surrender which the world has ever witnessed.

A great fleet of German battleships, battle cruisers, and light cruisers and destroyers left port for an unknown destination. They were met by the British fleet, accompanied by American and French representatives, and conducted to their destination.

A Berlin telegram received in Amsterdam gives this list of the vessels comprising the fleet of the German navy that were to be handed over:

Battleships: Kaiser, Kaiserin, König Albert, Kronprinz Wilhelm, Prinz Regent Luitpold, Markgraf, Grosser Kurfürst, Bayern, König Friedrich der Grosse.

Battle cruisers: Hindenburg, Derfflinger, Siedlitz, Moltke, Von der Tann.

Light cruisers: Bremen, Brummer, Frankfurt, Köln, Dresden, Emden.

Germany has lost the fleet of dreadnoughts which it had in commission or building when war began, and of practically all of its battle cruisers.

Yanks in Triumphant March.

With the American Army of Occupation, which is moving forward steadily over the territory evacuated by the retreating Germans, is being received with wild demonstrations of joy by the residents of the towns which are now being liberated after more than four years of German rule.

When the American troops entered Bielefeld, the heart of the Lethemian region, they passed under triumphal arches that had been hurriedly erected by the people of the town, and the streets through which they passed were decorated with flags.

On one arch through which the Americans passed was a homemade American flag, four feet in length, flanked by the French colors. The flag, which had been made by three French girls, had eleven stars and seven red and white stripes.

At St. Lo, as the advance troops of the Americans entered the town, the children were running and the mayor and his wife stood in front of their home to welcome the officers and correspondents, who were invited to become the mayor's guests.

Women, children and a great men crowded about the soldiers, embracing them and presenting them with flowers.

Shower scenes were enacted as the Americans reached Vitton, Longwy, Aulnoy, La Rochelle and other towns evacuated by the Germans.

Everything moves smoothly as the American forces proceed toward the Rhine. Some 200,000 men, with their supplies, guns and ammunition, must be moved along three main roads from railroads that get further behind each day. The job is one that would tax the abilities of the quartermasters of any army.

Flags Flutter Over British.

With the British Armies. Immense flags fluttered over the heads of the British troops as they moved forward and started on their march to the Rhine. The cavalrymen had their own guidons and some of them rode with French and Belgian flags sticking out of their boots and fastened to their bridles.

The gunners had flags on their limbers and the axes of their wagons; their steel trunks were polished brightly, as though for a military tournament, and their steel helmets were shining.

They had spent many hours in "spit and polish" since the day of the armistice, so they should look well on the road to the Rhine.

The advancing troops met thousands of civilians who were coming home after years of exile. As the soldiers went forward the homecoming civilians halted to wave flags at them, astonished, it seemed, by the smartness of the men who, after four years of war, rode out, spoke and spun from helmet to spur, on fine horses, well fed and groomed, in sharp contrast to the sorry-looking German horse-flesh.

Goodness Astonished Here.

Abigail had been frequently reminded during the days preceding Christmas that Santa Claus never remembered little girls who were naughty. She went to bed on Christmas eve conscious of her frequent lapses from virtue.

The next morning she was amazed at the array of gifts which met her gaze. "Oh!" she sighed blissfully, as she clasped a doll in one arm and a Teddy bear in the other, "I didn't know I was so good!"

Finally the car edged out of the Place de la Concorde into the Champs Elysees, but still the mob, with hats off, arms in air, and mouths wide open, shouting like mad, surged about him. It was several minutes more before the car could be extricated and a semibalance of a road made.

Even then, as the car got away up the great avenue toward the Arc de Triomphe, thousands ran after it. All Paris seemed to be rumbling with a mighty noise and over the mighty noise sounded, clear and strong, "Vive Pershing!"

Australian Spotted Gum.

Spotted gum is one of the best known and most used of the group of trees known as Australian hardwoods. It is of a grayish-yellow timber, with a close grain, which is sometimes straight but occasionally interlocked, hard, tough and elastic. It is extensively used where resilience and lightness combined with strength are the desiderata, as in coach building and similar industries. Recently it has been much used for cabinet making purposes, as the color somewhat resembles that of oak. Considerable use is also made of the timber for street paving, on account of its strength. It is much used in the building trade. Spotted gum is now generally employed by boat builders for timbers or ribs of vessels, formerly of ash or elm. When steamed or boiled it readily bends to conform to the shape of the vessel and has very little tendency to split, or crack.

SPANISH INFLUENZA

Do Not Fear When Fighting a German or a Germ!

By DR. M. COOK.

The cool fighter always wins and so there is no need to become panic-stricken. Avoid fear and crowds. Exercise in the fresh air and practice the three C's: A Clean Mouth, a Clean Skin and Clean Bowels. To carry off the poisons that accumulate within the body and to ward off an attack of the influenza bacillus, take a good liver regulator to move the bowels. Such a one is made up of May-apple, leaves of aloe, root of jalap, and is to be had at any drug store, and called "Pleasant Purgative Pellets."

If a bad cold develops, go to bed, wrap up well, drink freely of hot lemonade and take a hot mustard foot-bath. Have the bedroom warm but well ventilated. Obtain at the nearest drug store "Anuric Tablets" to flush the kidneys and control the pains and aches. Take an "Anuric" tablet every two hours, together with copious drinks of lemonade. If a true case of influenza, the food should be simple, such as broths, milk, buttermilk and ice-cream; but it is important that food be given regularly in order to keep up patient's strength and vitality. After the acute attack has passed, which is generally from three to seven days, the system should be built up by the use of a good iron tonic, such as "Ironite" tablets, to be obtained at some drug stores, or that well known blood-maker and herbal tonic made from roots and barks of forest trees—sold everywhere as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Pa's Predicament.

Hard Work Alone Never Kills

Hard work never killed anybody. But hard work, with irregular hours and neglect of rest does weaken the kidneys and keeps one tired, miserable and half sick. I don't believe I can say too much in praise of this remedy. Occasionally I have a lot of heavy housework to do and my back bothers me. A few boxes of Doan's soon bring me quick relief. GRAYLING, THURSDAY, NOV. 28.

SAM RASMUSSEN WRITES FROM CAMP DODGE, IOWA.

Camp Dodge, Ia.
Nov. 19, 1918.

Dear Sister and Folks:—
Today is Tuesday and I have a few minutes to spare, so will try and write
to let you know how I am getting along at Camp Dodge.

Well everything is about the same
down here. The weather is getting colder, but we haven't felt it much
yet. I am still at the Intelligence
school and like it real well; it is very interesting work, but I don't hardly think they will keep us here much longer. They started yesterday to get ready to send some of the boys
home. Of course I expect to be one of the last to be sent home, on account of being in the 2nd Infantry.
All the Depot Brigade will go before
us. The paper stated this morning
that there would be two hundred thousand sent home in the next two weeks
from all the camps in United States.
But that is only a small part of what
men there are in camps in this country, as there are about two million
now under arms.

I will now tell you a little about the big parade we had in Des Moines, Thursday afternoon. There were about ten thousand of us soldiers
in the parade, besides all that had come back from France. They were riding in cars, on account of many of them being crippled. Besides all of these there were many lodges and people from Des Moines. It took three hours for the parade to pass through town. All the people were out to give us a glad hand. Gee, they were just wild.

After the parade we all marched
down and got our trains back to camp.
We would have liked to stay in town,
but it was impossible on account of us
having our guns and packs to take care of. But a number of the boys went to town after supper. I stayed in camp for I didn't think there would be much use of going, because of the big crowd.

Well we are drilling a little every
day. We have our hours for drill and school. In school we are studying the map of France, and how to read, a compass and everything else that is used in France. So you see we have plenty to do. I suppose everybody is feeling much better now, that the war
is over. I know the boys down here
sure were wild the day the papers
came out that the Armistice had been signed by Germany. The only thing
we are waiting for now is to find out
what they are going to do with the Kaiser and his son. The papers say he is in Holland visiting. I don't think they will let him stay there very long.

Well dear sister and folks I can not
think of any more to write at present.
Hope you are all well at home.

With love to all,
Sam Rasmussen

SUGAR SHOWED OUR BACKBONE

American Willingness to Give Up
Luxury Demonstrated Nation's War Conscience.

STAND WITH THE ALLIES.

By Reducing Consumption People of the United States Averted a Famine at Home in Spite of Low Supplies.

The fact that the people of the United States were able to reduce by more than one-half million tons their July, August, September and October
consumption of sugar proves conclusively that their war conscience was thoroughly awakened and that the country as a whole stood ready to follow the injunctions of the Government.
Our normal consumption of sugar in
the four-month period beginning with July has been 400,000 tons per month,
a total of 1,600,000 for the quarter
year.

In July, when our sugar stringency
began to reach its height, consumption
was reduced to 200,000 tons. In August only 325,000 tons went into distribution and in September only 270, 000 tons. In October the distribution fell to 230,000 tons.

If the general public had failed to observe the injunctions of the Food Administration this country would have been in the throes of a sugar
famine before the end of August. Our visible supplies were so low as to bring
great anxiety to those familiar with the sugar situation. They feared that it would be absolutely impossible to reduce consumption to a point where
sugar would no longer be a mere luxury in the American diet.

Few accomplishments of the Food Administration will stand forth so predominantly as this reduced consumption of sugar. By it we have been able to bridge over the period of stringency
until the new beet and Louisiana cane-
sugar crops were in sight.

Now the nation is in a position so
that if we choose we may return to our normal home use of sugar, and Europe, with the release of ships to go far afield, can maintain its recent restricted rations. If, however, these nations are to increase their use of sugar very considerably it must be by
our continued sharing with them
through limiting our own consumption.

AMERICAN SPIRIT RELIED ON TO WIN.

In the light of succeeding events it
is interesting to recall the confidence
with which the United States Food Administration viewed the gloomy outlook in July of 1917, when this country had been in the war for less than four months and the Germans were
steadily sending the western front
nearer and nearer to Paris.

"Even though the situation in Europe may be gloomy today," he declared in a public statement, "no American who has knowledge of the results already obtained in every direction need have one atom of fear
that democracy will not defend itself
in these United States."

LOYALTY IN LITTLE THINGS LAST PROOF
OF PATRIOTISM

Americans without murmuring cut
their sugar allowance from four pounds a month to three and then as long as need be to two pounds for loy-
alty's sake.

Food Will Win the World.

America earned the gratitude of allied nations during war by sharing food. America under peace may win
the world's good will by saving to share.

America's
food pledge 20 million
tons

+ DEMOCRACY VS. AUTOCRACY. +
+ "There is no royal road to +
+ food conservation. We can only +
+ accomplish this by the voluntary +
+ action of our whole people, each +
+ element in proportion to its +
+ needs. It is a matter of equality +
+ of burden." +
+ The truth of this statement, +
+ made by the United States Food +
+ Administrator soon after we en- +
+ tered the war, has been borne +
+ out by the history of our ex- +
+ port. Autocratic food control +
+ in the lands of our enemies has +
+ broken down, while democratic +
+ food sharing has maintained the +
+ health and strength of this coun- +
+ try and of the Allies. +

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Armies of Allied Nations on Their Triumphant March to the Rhine.

GERMANY SURRENDERS FLEET

President Wilson Prepares to Leave
for Europe to Take Part in the Peace Conference—Ukrainian Government Overthrown
by Anti-Bolsheviks.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The triumphant march to the Rhine
by the armies of the allies has been going on steadily all week. At last
these brave troops move forward really "with bands playing and banners
flying," and as they pass through the cities, towns and hamlets of northern France and Belgium the people of those places, released from years of barbarous slavery to the Huns, give them hysterical welcome. From holes
where they had been hidden since the summer of 1914 their national flags
are brought forth to decorate the buildings and streets and the ruins
left by the invaders, and everywhere
homemade specimens of the Stars and Stripes fly with the other banners.
The wild joy of the inhabitants is
pathetic in the extreme, and especially in Alsace and Lorraine, which is occupied by the Third American army
together with the French under General Mangin. Those "lost provinces,"
now regained, have ever remained
loyal at heart to France and they welcomed the Allies and the doughboys
with open arms.

For Lorraine the great demonstration took place in Metz, which was entered by Mangin's army on Tuesday.
That general was injured the day before when his horse fell, but Marshal Pétain was there and, standing before
the statue of Marshal Ney in the main square, reviewed the troops. The inhabitants had overturned the German
statues in the city and made the place
gay with the allied flags and with their own national costumes. Similar scenes were witnessed in Strassburg
and other cities of Alsace. Near the Swiss border the French troops first reached the Rhine.

The American army of occupation,
commanded by General Dickman, and
about 250,000 strong, marched across
the old German frontier into Lorraine and swung to the northward
into Luxemburg, the marines on its right passing into Belgium. In the grand duchy no less than elsewhere
the Yankees were enthusiastically greeted. Their advance was made always with due caution, however, and
the task of moving so large an army
forward steadily and keeping up its supplies and communications was performed in perfect manner.

Meanwhile the British and Belgian armies of occupation were keeping
pace with their allies, advancing
through Belgium close on the heels of the retreating Germans.

Everywhere the victors found vast
stores of weapons and materials
which the Huns left in accordance with the stipulations of the armistice,
and in general it was said the Germans were carrying out the terms imposed on them. There was pillaging
in some places, and occasionally a storehouse was blown up, but these instances were comparatively infrequent. The worst charge against the conquered foe related to the released
allied prisoners. Many of these,
usually sick and half starved, were
merely turned loose to make their way
to their friends as best they might.
England sent to Berlin a stern protest against such violations of the armistice terms.

The allied fleets have passed through
the Dardanelles to the Black sea, and allied troops have been landed in Constantinople and on the Gallipoli peninsula. In what was Austria-Hungary
the process of occupation also goes
on, French troops having entered Budapest.

At sea the surrender of the Germans was signalled last week by the
turning over to the allies of the German high seas fleet and many submarines. These vessels were met by British warships and escorted to port.
The submarines to Harwich and the battleships and cruisers to the Firth of Forth. The Huns, who have never shown good faith except under compulsion, were watched with utmost care. They were sullen and chagrined
but attempted no treachery. The vessels they surrendered were dirty and stripped of nonessentials but otherwise were in working condition.

Conditions in Germany still are
chaotic and Premier Ebert is not having his own way by any means. He declined that there should be a constituent assembly as soon as the franchise lists could be made out, but the soldiers' and workmen's council at Berlin declined this, demanding instead the summoning of a general soldiers' and workmen's congress "in order to make a decision as to the future of Germany." The extremists are in the great majority there and
their strength is reported to be growing in many other German cities. The Socialist government is striving in various ways to bring to bear influences that may mitigate the rigors of the armistice and peace terms. Appeals for food continue to come from both Germany and Austria. "If our stomachs are full we will behave much better," cry the Huns. As a matter of fact, shipments of food for hungry
Europe already have been dispatched
and the Germans are making agreements by which they will be able to obtain food from Denmark, Argentina
and other countries. What the United States can spare probably will not go
to them, but to more deserving sufferers, and even to Russia.

Considerable stir was caused by the rumor that the former Kaiser intends to return to Germany because his presence in Holland was embarrassing the queen and government of the Dutch. Wilhelm had weathered the crisis

and the radical Dutch abandoned
their attempt to force him to abdicate,
but doubtless he would be glad to get rid of William Hohenzollern. Germany
might permit him to return, though
the danger of a reactionary movement is recognized. However, it is to be hoped the peace treaty will settle the future
of the deposed ruler so that he need never again be considered. Charles of Austria is in better state than William, for, though he is said to be in poverty in Vienna, neither his people
nor the allies have any serious charges
to make against him.

President Wilson has ended the doubt as to his going to Europe by announcing that he will attend the opening of the peace conference,
though he probably will not remain
to preside over its sessions and take part in them. The entente governments seem to be pleased with this decision. The members of the American delegation had not been announced when this was written, but it was believed they would include former President Taft and perhaps Secretary of Agriculture Houston, as well
as Secretary of State Lansing and Colonel House.

According to the Washington correspondents, the president will seek
to influence the peace conference in five matters especially. These are:
The creation of a league of nations
to enforce peace.

An agreement to reduce military
armaments.

An agreement making freedom of
the seas in war as in peace subject to
regulation by the league of nations.

A square deal for the German people.

Aid for Russia.

Four of these are people probably will willingly leave to Mr. Wilson and the other diplomats to settle, but the fifth, "a square deal for the German people," is calculated to arouse the apprehension of many millions of people in America and the countries of the entente. Even if they are not demanding revenge, they do demand that
a square deal be given America, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and
the other nations that fought the central powers and whipped them, and that Germany and her fellow conspirators get only what is left, if anything.
The governments of the allied nations
have kept from the knowledge of the
people many facts concerning the war,
and doubtless this has been wise, but
they could not if they would conceal
the part the German people as a whole
have played. Every one of us knows that the latter, whatever their status
or their politics, supported their government as long as it appeared to be winning, gloriously approved all the crimes and outrages committed, and repudiated the leaders of the criminal conspiracy only when their failure
was assured and it became necessary
for them to look for some way of
crawling out from under the wreckage.

Why, then, should the president of the United States or any other representative of the powers that defeated Germany, feel it necessary to make a special plea for a square deal for the vanquished? Paraphrasing the old saying, what we demand for the Germans is plain justice, and a—little of that.

Mr. Wilson is said to be especially concerned in the problem of establishing a stable government in Russia.
and there is reason for his concern.
That distracted country has bobbed
up again in the news columns and the situation there is, if possible, more complicated than ever. The new anti-Russian government that was established
at Omsk and recognized by most of the anti-bolshevik elements is now in control of Admiral Alexander Kolchak.
The council of ministers executed a coup d'etat and made Kolchak the virtual dictator and commander of the anti-Russian army and navy. He is called "supreme governor." Several opposing ministers were imprisoned.
What the course of the commissioners
of the allied governments will be is not known.

Along the Dvina the bolsheviks attacked the allied forces and were repulsed with heavy losses. Since then they have contented themselves with shelling the Russo-allied positions
from the gunboats, with which they
are better supplied than their adversaries.

An event that was very gratifying
to Washington and the entente capitals was the overthrow of the Ukrainian government and the capture of Kiev by anti-bolshevik troops from Astrakhan under General Denikine.
This opens the way for the allies directly into the heart of Russia. While they were being ousted at home, the Ukrainians were engaged in continuous fighting with the Poles in Galicia,
where they had taken Lemberg, and
in Bukovina, where they held Czernov-
itz. There, as in the Ukraine, the Ukrainians were helped by German
officers.

No news has come from eastern Si-
beria, nor is much to be expected,
since its dissemination is under the control of the Japanese. The recent lifting of the censorship does not seem to apply to that region.

The government took two steps last week that aroused much comment and not a little protest. The first was an order making effective governmental
control of all the marine cable systems of the United States; and the second was the consolidation of the services of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies under governmental control. Postmaster
General Burleson is in control.

Congress adjourned on November 21 in order that the members might have a brief rest before the short session opens on December 2. The president has planned that all important legislation shall be held up during his absence in Europe, the scheme being
to have the vice president and speaker withhold their signatures to bills
passed; but considerable opposition to this plan is developing. Many leaders
in congress contend that there is urgent necessity for legislation in the line of reconstruction, in which America already is being outstripped by European nations.

Copenhagen.—Up to October 31,
1,580,000 German soldiers were killed
and the fate of 260,000 was not known
the Vorwarts of Berlin says it learns
on reliable authority.

Four million soldiers had been wounded, some several times. The newspaper adds that there were 490,

Senators Abandon La Follette Quiz

Washington.—Investigation of the alleged disloyal speech of Senator La Follette, at St. Paul, more than a year ago was abandoned by the senate elections committee, on a vote of nine
to two. Committee members said,
that however much the speech of Senator La Follette on which the proceedings were brought might be deplored there was no basis for expulsion from the senate. Senator Pom-erene, Ohio, and Senator Walsh, Montana, voted against dismissal.

What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices?

Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay
as little for live-stock as they wish.

Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for
dressed meat as they wish.

This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature, as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand.

When more people want meat than there
is meat to be had, the scramble along the line
to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down.

When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer
more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will.

Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay
the producer the same prices as before, and
still remain in the packing business.

All the packer can do is to keep the expense
of turning stock into meat at a minimum,
so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock.

Thanks to its splendid plants, modern
methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet
of refrigerator cars, experience and organization,
Swift & Company is able to pay for live
cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef
and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its
profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound),
out of the other 10 per cent.

He says that Standish has a fine school and that since going there he has established commercial and agricultural classes in addition to the regular classes. He is not in favor of military training in the schools, he says, but he has instituted physical training based upon principles used in the army.

Donald Lamont and family are moving to Mason. Since early last spring Mr. Lamont has been in charge of the State game preserve at the Hanson Military reservation. The Game department is giving up propagation of wild game birds and animals at this place and for that reason Mr. Lamont has been transferred to the pheasant breeding park at Mason. During the past summer over 600 pheasants have been raised here, most of which have been doled out to various sections of the State and set at liberty. Eight pairs were let out at the Hanson reservation. There were ten left at the preserve. Most of these have been sent out to parks, and a few turned loose in the Upper peninsula of this state. Some of the deer have been shipped out but there are still many in the park. They will all be taken away just as fast as they can be captured and crated. Apparently the Game department is about to permanently abandon the Hanson Reservation as a game propagating park. The reservation will, of course, remain a game refuge where all wild game is protected from the hunters at all seasons of the year. Richard Babbitt will move into the home that has heretofore been used by the caretaker of the same refuge, and will act as game warden and special overseer of the reservation.

WAR BOARD CHANGED STYLES
Saving That Has Been Effected in Woman's Dress and Shoes Is of Moment.

"Whether women realize it or not, there has been a saving of steel through making corsets on simpler lines. There was a shameful waste of material in shoes, but the war industries board stopped that by restricting the height, the number of styles, the variety of colors, etc." In World's Work Theodore Price tells how these and other savings were brought about "by diplomacy." He says: "Women's wear presented a delicate problem. Paris sets the styles for the ladies. Certainly gentlemen in Washington were not to be consulted. But the war industries board made a few inquiries by cablegram—the French minister of commerce and industry asked the arbiters of fashion over there a few questions—or, at least, it is presumed that he did—and the French designers suddenly awakened to a fine appreciation of the beauty of simplicity of style. The board did not dictate to American designers; it merely acquainted them with the situation. A saving of 25 per cent in the wool used in women's clothes was secured."

Another interesting saving, says World's Work, was in the number of kinds of articles. For example, there were 600 sizes and kinds of metal beds, which the board reduced to 30 and lightened 35 pounds per bed; 287 varieties of auto tires were reduced to nine. In the vacuum cleaner business alone the war industries board found a way to conserve 1,000,000 feet of fabric hose.

The Patriotism of Susan

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Ever since fifteen years before, when the Yagers had the quaint old Dutch porch of their house on High street, in Tilton, turned into a full-fledged "front piazza," Horace, Slocum had entertained a passion for Susan—henceforth, but none the less absorbing. For Horace was at that time simply a carpenter by the day for the builder who built that piazza, and though he had no mean idea of his own calling and had no very definite notion of the social superiority of the Yagers over the Slocums, still it was obviously impossible. Nothing could come of it. "Old Man Yager" had made what for that town was a fortune in the leading dry goods store, and Susan was his only heir. Moreover, she possessed radiant red hair, a defiant tip-tilted nose, a fair, rose-colored skin only the more dazzling for the contrast of a few freckles—and thus embodied Horace Slocum's ideal of all that was femininely lovely.

During those days that he saved and nailed the boards of the Yager piazza the twenty-year-old Susan had worn a hellotrope gingham dress as she sat out about the garden, and as Slocum caught glimpses of her through the windows, and since then there had been an associational thrill about that particular hue that had remained still vibrant, showing that the thirty-eight-year-old "boss carpenter" was bewitched by Susan as ever. But it was more hopeless. She was regarded as one of the "best fixed" spinsters in town. She belonged to the Country club and had a center-aisle pew in the church attended only by the old aristocracy of Tilton.

History moved slowly in Tilton during most of those fifteen years, and though Horace fed on despair, he had little cause for jealousy, for there really were no eligible bachelors in Tilton nor any reason why they should come—that is, until Tilton awoke one day and found itself a war industries center. Then for the first time there had been a winter barracks in old Tilton in the days of the Revolution the male population far outnumbered that of the women. Only the males in this case were workmen, mechanics, foremen, directors and promoters of a half dozen war-developing industries.

One morning in the first weeks of this new regime Horace was feeling particularly down at heart. The house where he had boarded gloomily for these fifteen years had been bought up at a good price as an extension to one of the plants, and he faced the proposition of being homeless within a week.

It was the morning he was putting a side porch on Widow Smith's house next to Susan's—for by this time front porches had gone out and side porches were in demand in Tilton.

"Too bad about Miss Susan," the widow remarked. She had brought her pea shelling to the side window, for she was nothing loath to converse with the comely carpenter, who stopped saving as if suddenly paralyzed and gazed blankly at the widow.

"What's wrong?" he managed to ask.

"Oh, she would manage her own affairs—did her banking all in an out-of-town bank, wouldn't have a lawyer, and now—" the widow Smith here spoke with slow emphasis as she folded her hands over the dish of peas and looked hard at Horace. "Now she's keeping boarders."

"Keeping boarders?" Horace gasped. "Keepers you can believe me that when any one as proud as Susan Yager would keep boarders, she's pretty well reduced. But she would have her own way and now—now she's reaping the results."

The fact really was that Susan had a household of boarders; and as every one said—and all the neighbors were gossiping about it—she couldn't have "become reduced" at a better time, for there were hundreds of out-of-town war workers only too eager to snap at a chance to become part of that household.

Horace had so long been accustomed to a mood of calm despair that the palpitation he experienced on actually seeking admission for himself in Susan's boarding house was immensely disturbing. Perhaps he would not have been so reckless, but now for the first time the element of jealousy entered. There were some 50 or 60 apparently eligible bachelors in Tilton, and of these Susan had undertaken to accommodate under her spacious roof six. Horace was the seventh.

Apparently Susan was a great manager, for soon the excellence of the fare of her board became proverbial through Tilton. She retained her old Southern cook, got a couple of young girls in to wash dishes, and wait on table and still managed to make a go

Love Your Work.
The richest rewards come only when one can literally fall in love with one's work. If you are keenly interested in your daily efforts, your work is being done more satisfactorily. It is a labor of love. Every day is an enjoyable experience.

Love your work. Retain your youthful enthusiasm. All this means that you must take every possible care of your health. That you must maintain your physical energies at high-water mark. Remember always that you depend upon your bodily machine for the attainment of your object in life. Take care of that machine.

Is it not worth more than an automobile, than an airplane, a fine horse or dog? Recognize its value to the full. Remember that each day you are what your food makes you. Your muscles, the strength and contour of your body, are influenced by the exercise you take. The blood that makes up the tissues, that nourishes and gives energy and enthusiasm to your brain, depends upon your diet and exercise and the general care of your body—Physical Culture.

of it—or apparently she did, for people soon observed that a coat of paint was being applied and other signs of a full purse were in evidence. Then she drew Horace aside one evening after the other boarders were leaving the dining room and asked him whether he would undertake the job of putting on a side porch like that of Mrs. Smith's, and, though Horace had an opportunity of taking some contract work for one of the new industries at a really stupendous figure, he assured her that he could begin at once.

It was the first time he had worked on the Yagers' house since that time 15 years before, when he had first thrilled under the near presence of his ideal. And her figure was still as bewitching, though possibly a little plumper, her skin as fair—were there a few more freckles!—and to make the ecstasy complete she again wore a frock of hellotrope muslin.

Still people pitied poor Susan Yager. To be sure, she apparently was making money, having all those improvements, but that was probably only another evidence of her extreme lack of business sense. That is the way Mrs. Smith looked at the matter, as she assured Horace she had every reason to believe Susan was frantically involved in debt.

It was one night after that man Miggesworth, vice president of one of the big industries, had been showing (as Horace thought) too marked a devotion to Susan that Horace got his courage up. After all, he assured himself, his presumption now was not what it would have been once for the Susan Yager heiress was a different person to woo than Susan Yager bankrupt. Susan Yager, boarding house keeper.

Strangely enough, all his awkward bashfulness vanished when he found himself alone with Susan in her little sitting room, and the up-dit of her nose didn't seem half so proud and forbidding. He stood close beside her and realized that she was really not a tall, haughty person at all; her glorious auburn hair scarcely reached his heart.

He began quite deliberately, and told her he had loved her 15 years, and was asking her to marry him now, because he wanted to make her independent, pay her bills and share his years' savings with her.

And Susan promptly told Horace that she didn't think she could ever find a husband who would suit her better, let him steal one short delicious kiss, and sent him off to bed.

Somewhat Horace had expected she would say that she appreciated his generosity about taking the debts. He concluded that she was still proud, as Yagers always were, and this is why she had not done so. But the next day she met him with a radiant smile that turned into contagious laughter. "I couldn't tell you last night," she said, "because after all it is comparatively unimportant. But, you see, I haven't any debts. I've managed my own affairs and—well, I've tripled the estate father left me. But I wanted to do something patriotic, and when I asked Mr. Miggesworth what I could do he said the most pressing need was more boarding houses—said the plants would have to close if there weren't more accommodations. It thought every one would know I did it just for patriotism."

"And—still you are willing to marry me?"

"Yes, Horace."

"And there is nothing I can do for you?" this in a crestfallen accent.

"You can give up doing house jobs," she said, "take some war contract and give the proceeds to the Red Cross."

And of course Horace did.

Why He Was Worried.
Carl J. Carter, prosecuting attorney for the Bartholomew and Decatur circuit court, who lives near Columbus, had just been explaining to his wife certain matters in his questionnaire, and that she would be required to swear to certain matters therein stated relative to dependencies.

Donald, his six-year-old son, while on the way to the city in company with his mother, seemed to be in a rather worried state of mind, and was exceptionally quiet.

"What is the matter with you, Donald?" Mrs. Carter inquired.

"Oh, mamma, I was just thinking about you having to swear, and I don't like it. Can't you say 'dog gone it' and let it go at that?"—Indianapolis News.

French Nerve.
A French billion observer was attached to an American unit. For four days he went up in his bulky sausage and remained there unperturbed by whistling shells, directing the fire of American batteries. On the fifth day a German airplane dived from a low cloud with its machine gun going. The balloon dissolved in flame and smoke, and the observer took to his parachute.

The Boche afirman, not content with destroying the sausage, pursued the Frenchman as he floated down, pumping bullets at the outspread umbrella. And the Frenchman coolly drew his revolver and answered the Boche's fire.

Wire's Long Stretch.
While S. E. Wharton of Boston was traveling in Switzerland his attention was called to the longest unsupported telegraph wire he had ever seen. It crosses in one span the Lake of Walenstadt, being fastened to two iron towers which are almost 8,000 feet apart. The line is made of steel and that section of it closest to the lake is more than 100 feet above the surface of the water.

Contrary Mineral.
Coal is a contrary critter. Instead of expanding generally, like water, in freezing weather, it contracts rapidly. The sensitive coal pile shrinks at the first touch of winter and, when the mercury at zero, when every respectable commodity is frozen stiff, the costly coal pile melts away like simple Simon's snowball before the fire.

Deceptions.
"Didn't the late P. T. Barnum say the public likes to be humbugged?" "Yes. But he didn't mean the way the Prussians have tried to do it."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

AFTER HUN SCOUTMASTERS

No man exercises a greater influence over an American boy than his scoutmaster. The Hun understands this. Before the war some Germans sought commissions as scout leaders. Why?

Since the war began facts have come to light showing that Germans and pro-Germans have endeavored to escape detection and continue their connection with the organization, although it is committed to patriotic service for the United States of America, the defeat of Germany and the stamping out of German militarism.

It is time for every scout official to keep awake. Is any troop sluggish in selling Liberty bonds and War Savings stamps? Find the reason—there's no time to be lost.

Who is teaching the boys? What is he teaching? Who endorsed his application for a commission? Did the applicant tell the truth on his application?

A scout is kind—but he does not befriend those who are killing his brothers in battle and murdering women and children for no reason except the love of slaughter, and greed.

The Boy Scouts of America are Americans. They obey the orders of the government.

GOVERNOR PRAISES SCOUTS.

Gov. W. L. Harding of Iowa thus expresses his approval of the scout movement:

"Now that we have come to recognize the vital importance of making every citizen of the United States a true American, we must arrive also at a fuller realization of the benefits of each great movement which aims to accomplish this. Among these truly splendid movements is that of the Boy Scouts of America, and it is high to the credit of the organization that it has the vision and began the work before the nation as a whole had come to the crisis."

"I see ahead of us, not only for the period of the war but during the generations to come, no single work finer or more hopeful than that which inspires to direct the boys of America into loyal, idealistic, intelligent manhood. I wish the tenets of scout law, as taught to the boys of this body, might be written also into the hearts of every man."

PERSHING WRITES TO SCOUTS.

A letter from General Pershing praising the fine war work of the boy scouts has been received by Mr. Colin H. Livingston, president of the Boy Scouts of America. General Pershing writes:

"To the splendid army of four hundred and forty-two thousand American boy scouts, the American expeditionary forces send greetings and appreciation for all you are doing for our great cause. Upon you will soon fall the burden of our civilization. Every act and thought of yours, in keeping with the scout law, will help to make good citizens and good soldiers. Obey it in letter and spirit, and all the older scouts who are fighting for you and all we hold dear will shake hands with you as comrades who helped them win the war. Three cheers for the Boy Scouts of America!"

SCOUTS, HOW ABOUT WALNUT?

Many carloads of black walnut have been reported to the forest service as the result of the scout canvass. This is fine. But what about the troops that haven't sent in any reports? Where are the trees? Where are the scouts?

The government must have the proper material for its gun stocks and propellers. It needs black walnut. It needs scouts to locate and report the timber. Scouts must not fall down on the job at this critical period when every bit of effort counts.

If they haven't completed their canvass, they should have a black walnut hike on Saturday after school. Get busy, scouts! Help beat the Huns in the woods of America.

SCOUTS HELP THE DRAFTEES.

A letter from a scout official in Memphis says:

"A major of the United States army who has had a great deal of experience in receiving and transporting draftees in their camps states to the head of our draft board here that it would be impossible to get along without the scouts; that everywhere they were more helpful in handling crowds than even the police."

EMBLEMS TO 38,000 SCOUTS.

The treasury department awards war service emblems to scouts who secured ten or more subscriptions in the Liberty Loan campaign.

It is the hope of the officers of the national council that this recognition by our government of their achievement will stimulate them as scouts to greater service to the government and to others.

Awards will be made to about 38,000 scouts for third Liberty loan service. This establishes what is believed to be a world record of awards.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt—Adv.

Had the Better Record.

A captain, returned from sea on some holidays, was arguing and discussing with a farmer in the midst of a company at a country inn one evening.

Captain—Allow me to say, sir, that you have no idea of the world, or of what I'm talking about. I have sailed round the world several times and I have practical experience and have seen wonders I'm telling you of.

Farmer—Well, sir, I can boast of a navigation record that you have not achieved. My mate and I have steered a ship to the United States, only two of us, mind.

Captain—Impossible, my friend. Seeing you have never been at sea. What ship was it, pray?

Farmer—A courtship, sir, and you are a bachelor still?

One Way of Killing Competitor.

"I want to know if you will give me a recommendation?"

"I should say not. I discharged you for incompetency."

"Your competitor tells me, sir, that if you will write a letter of recommendation, he will give me a position. I hope you won't stand in my way."

"That's different. I don't know any quicker way of crippling his business than to get him to hire you. Sure I'll give you a letter."

RENEWED ALLIED WAR FORECAST

BERLIN PAPER WARNS BAVARIAN
PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT TO STAND AGAINST
RADICALS.

ELBERT AND HAASE UNITED

Berlin, via Amsterdam.—The Augsburg Evening Gazette advises the Bavarian provisional government to take a positive stand against Berlin radicals and to threaten the north German terrorists with secession of Bavaria and other south German states unless they adopt a different policy. The paper states opposition of the Berlin soldiers' and workmen's council to a democratic republic will not only prove to be a signal for civil war but also will result in breaking off peace negotiations and entry of Entente troops into Germany. Continuing, it says:

"All of south Germany must disengage itself from this Berlin reign of blood and terror and prove to the world it respects President Wilson's ultimatum: 'No peace with autocracy.'"

The left wing of the Social Democrats and the Ultra-Radicals launched their anticipated fight on the National Assembly during the course of a largely attended meeting of the workmen's council for Greater Berlin called by the executive board of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council.

It was presided over by Hermann Mollenkott and Herr Mueller, joint chairmen of the body which considers itself the highest authority in the present government and incidentally claims right to disband the cabinet if the latter refuses to carry out its policy. Herr Mueller, independent's representative in the committee chairmanship, asserted at the meeting an attempt to convene a national assembly is a plain endeavor to give the bourgeoisie control of the new democracy. He demanded a socialist republic and added: "A national assembly would be our death warrant. The path to it can only lead over my dead body."

Ebert and Haase United.

Friedrich Ebert, head of the new German cabinet, and Dr. Hugo Haase attended the meeting. The latter emphasized need of a national body and added achievements of the revolution would not be lost as a result of it.

Today's opposition to the Ebert-Scheidemann program foreshadowed internal strife calculated to disrupt the present government. While Haase is known to be in favor of a national assembly because of its immediate bearing upon American food relief and peace negotiations, it is plain his faction is a unit against the proposition.

Leading political circles in Berlin, according to the Vossische Zeitung, believe the executive committee of the present government is falling in to the same error with respect to interpretation of the present attitude of America and the Entente as did the old regime which was unable "to grasp President Wilson's hint the emperor be removed."

Cites Beatty's Refusal.

The newspaper's informant declares further evidence of the Allied refusal to negotiate with a government which is not representative of the whole German people was furnished by the attitude of Admiral Beatty who, "evidently at behest of his government," declined to receive representatives of the soldiers' and workers' council when arrangements were made to surrender the German fleet.

It is added it is obvious no food relief would be sent unless foundations for a democratic government are firmly laid.

DON'T SELL YOUR LIBERTY BONDS.

There is every indication that Liberty Loan bonds, issued during the war, will greatly rise in value with the establishment of peace. In 1888 a $100 United States bond, bearing 4 per cent interest, sold in the open market for $130. In 1901 it brought more than $139. The most conservative will agree that Liberty bonds are sure to go above par in value, now that the Allies have brought the war to a victorious end.

The shrewd and unscrupulous, the birds of prey in finance, realize the worth of Liberty bonds, and are using every effort to secure them from those who are uninformed in financial matters. Their favorite method is to offer stock in wildcat companies—in exchange for Liberty bonds. Some of these get-rich-quick schemers offer to lend their prospective victims money, whereupon to buy the goldbrick stock, taking Liberty bonds as security. This, of course, is only a thinly disguised attempt to obtain Liberty bonds for worthless stock.

The United States owns some five million acres of oil lands and fifty-three million acres of coal lands, the title to which belongs to the Federal Government. Since all owners of Liberty bonds are part owners of this Government, it would be palpably foolish of them to exchange their Liberty bonds for oil or coal stocks of doubtful value.

Before disposing of his bonds, the holder thereof would do well to consult a banker. Such consultation will not prosper the fake stock concerns, but it certainly will prosper the bond holder.
